

Building Your Business Restarting Lives™

workRestart is a Social Enterprise that helps businesses benefit from competitive rates using a prison workforce.

This offers significant cost advantages whilst helping motivated people restart their lives on the right path.

Are rising costs making business harder?

Finding it difficult to find the right staff?

Want to give back to the community in meaningful way?

About workRestart

workRestart provides opportunities to reduce production costs and increase profitability. This gives motivated people a fresh start in life. We match you with a reliable low cost prisoner workforce to reduce your labour and overhead costs.

The workforce is carefully selected and are provided training that leads to work certifications (administered by our onsite training partner TAFE Queensland). While you receive the benefit of this low cost workforce and facilities, you also provide a pathway that restarts lives, significantly reducing the rate of re-offending and helping to build a safer community. Research shows that prisoners who obtain employment after release are significantly less likely to reoffend.

Interested?

This option is a great opportunity, but it won't be for everyone. However, if you tick some of the following let's talk.

You have

- ✓ Business processes that require a skilled or semi-skilled workforce
- ✓ An ability to move some, or all, of your processes off site
- ✓ Difficulty in attracting and retaining a skilled or semi-skilled workforce
- ✓ A need to reduce overheads to increase profitability
- ✓ An openness to improving processes

How Do We Do It

The workRestart business process:

What to Expect

A reduction in your labour and overhead costs

A reliable source of labour

An improved business reputation

Directly contributing to restarting lives

Just as you will carefully assess the potential fit between your business and us, we will also assess the pathways for the prisoner workforce. Our aim is to create a win-win situation for everyone involved.

Your Next Step

Simply request an industry pack. It will provide further information on the workRestart outsourcing model. It also includes a self-check assessment of your business, so you can easily see if workRestart is for you. If you decide it's worth pursuing we'll arrange for a member of the workRestart team to meet with you on-site at your business.

Take the opportunity to make a difference to your business and restart a life.

About workRestart

workRestart is a Not-For-Profit social enterprise that aims to provide a new start for prisoners, reduce the rate of reoffending and help build safer communities.

All profits are reinvested into supporting social enterprises that employ prisoners on their release.

- Experienced social entrepreneurs
- Strong collaboration with industry & government
- Effective leadership, innovation & support
- Commercial understanding & business acumen
- Community focused

The Aim

- Within one year we will create meaningful employment experiences that help prisoners integrate back into society with real world experience and training
- Within five years we will create enough social enterprise opportunities so that every willing ex-offender can gain genuine employment in South East Queensland
